What does the perception data tell you? (perception data can describe people’s knowledge, attitudes, beliefs, perceptions, competencies; perception data can also answer the question “What do people think they know, believe, or can do?”)	Based on our survey data, our school is operational but has room for growth.

What process data did you use? (examples: student participation in school activities, sports, clubs, arts; student participation in special programs such as peer mediation, counseling, skills conferences; parent/student participation in events such as college information meetings and parent workshops)	Sign in sheets for parent nights and parent-teacher conferences, student enrollment reports for athletics and clubs, counselor name logs

What does the process data tell you? (process data describes the way programs are conducted; provides evidence of participant involvement in programs; answers the question “What did you do for whom?”)	Parent participation in school events is low but student participation in school events and extra curricular activities is high
--	--

What achievement data did you use?	MAP Data Illuminate ACCESS scores GMAS
------------------------------------	---

What does your achievement data tell you?	The Illuminate, MAP and GMAS data show that overall students are struggling to master grade level standards. GMAS scores were improved from previous year. ACCESS scores are very low and needs drastic improvement.
---	--

What demographic data did you use?	Discipline (SWIS and MARS) GMAS Subgroup Data
------------------------------------	--

What does the demographic data tell you?	SWIS discipline data told us that Black students are twice as likely to receive discipline referrals than all other subgroups.  GMAS data shows that Black students, EL students, and SWDs are the lowest performing subgroups.

Describe how the school will ensure that low-income and minority children enrolled in the Title I school are not served at disproportionate rates by ineffective, out-of-field, or inexperienced teachers.	All of our teachers are highly qualified or currently seeking highly qualified status. New teachers are provided with support they need through professional learning and mentoring by veteran teachers.

Students who are performing below grade level in reading and/or math are served through an intervention period daily to improve their basic skills in order for them to be able to be more successful with grade level standards.

If applicable, provide a description of how teachers, in consultation with parents, administrators, and pupil services personnel, will identify eligible children most in need of services in Title I targeted assistance schools/programs.
